Mr. Paine had a lecture that covered the entire period of musical history in the academic year. It was written out, and he read it, repeating the same lecture from the MS. year after year. He had a lecture on short-hand, and had copies printed, which he sold at a high figure to wealthy students just before the examinations. The half course

Park Commissioner Woodruff, of Brooklyn, has done so much for the cycling fraternity in general that if he had issued an earnest request that wheelmen should not make use of the main drive on the Ocean Boulevard it would doubtless have been heeded by the great majority of wheelmen. Most riders much prefer to take the path, and when the new path is completed there will really be no reason why anyone should choose the roadway. At the same time it is plain that the right of the wheelmen to use the drive is not to be denied. Under the Liberty bill (as it is generally called), which was passed in 1887 and opened all the roads to the use of the bicycle, the use of wheelmen, the right to use this drive was plainly established, and though the Commissioner is empowered to make regulations governing the use of the drive he certainly has no power to rule bicyclers off of it. He might as well prohibit them from going on the drives of the Park itself. It is said in his behalf that the Ocean Parkway was never formally opened as a street, and that as a result it is not as a road under the direction of the Park Department. But the things do not make it anything but a public drive, and the only reason it comes under the provision of the Liberty bill is that it is a public drive.

Commissioner Woodruff's idea is to keep wheelmen and drivers as much apart as possible, believing that such an arrangement will conduce to the safety of each. In arriving upon this Cambridge, May 9 (Special).—The important athletic incident of the coming week will be the dual games between Harvard and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Harvard will send down a team which is expected to win. The trainer, Lathrop, says it is the best team he has ever trained. In the high hurdles Harvard has no fast men, the best being H. L. Monroe, '96, with a record of 16-1-5 seconds. H. L. Monroe, '96, and K. K. Kubi, L. S., are evenly matched at 16-1-5 seconds. In the spurts Harvard stands a better chance than appearances would indicate. Pennsylvania's best man, Buckholz, has not beaten 10-5 seconds. Harvard has five men who are running 10-5 seconds, while occasionally one does better. They are F. H. Wigelow, '98; L. W. Redpath, '98; J. T. Roche, '96; G. W. Denholm, '97; A. M. Cason, '97. They are equally fast in the 220-yard dash. Harvard has been beaten but once in twelve years in the quarter mile; she has now six men or more who can do 51 seconds or better. Harvard is confident in case of the half-mile, so much so that she is not likely to run her fastest man, Hollister, with his record of 1:57-2-5. They will leave that to her second string men, E. N. Fenno, '17, who runs in even 2 minutes; C. H. Williams, '98, whose record is 2:01; and J. L. Bordiner, jr., L. S., who is another 2 minute man.

GERMAN PRESS CLUB'S NEW HOME.

THE DOORS THROWN OPEN TO MEMBERS AND GUESTS.

For the first time the doors of the new home of the German Press Club were thrown open yesterday to the members and guests. They gathered under a hospitable roof to celebrate an occasion to which they have been looking forward with much interest. The new clubhouse is a substantial structure of brick, three stories high. It is at No. 21 City Hall place.

The rooms are handsomely furnished and equipped with all improvements and accommodations. In the basement are the billiard and card rooms. The first floor are the dining-room, buffet and reception room; on the next floor, the library, Board of Directors' room and secretary's office, and on the top floor the women's parlor.

The exercises attending the opening of the new house last evening were enjoyed by a large number of people. The officers of the club were present, including C. Max Loth, president; Adolf Schaffmeyer, ex-president; F. C. Martini, recording secretary; Victor Wozniak, treasurer; A. J. Resler, financial secretary; Theodore F. Cuno, Günther, Thomas and Arnold Furedi, trustees; L. F. Thoma, of the House Committee. The members of the club, many of whom were present, include Judge Newburger, Mag-

City and Police Commissioner Roosevelt were all among the dinner guests.
After the dinner, President Loth introduced a speech, the subject of the clubhouse, who made short address and delivered the key of the building to Otto Hubach. Hubach had spoken a few words in acknowledgment, he delivered the key to the president, who entertained the company with a copy address. President then passed the House H. H. von Mollenhuth, chairman of the House Committee, in whose possession it remains.
William Steinwald delivered an interesting speech on behalf of the club. Letters of regret from Mayor Strong, Mayor Adams, of Brooklyn and Governor Roosevelt were then read. Colonel Greene, of the New-York Press Club, greeted the brethren on behalf of his organization. George
